

THE CATALYST GROUP

planning and environment

The Catalyst Group is looking for an experienced RMA practitioner to join our team.

We seek expressions of interest from critical thinkers who enjoy a fast-paced work environment and are focused on delivering positive outcomes for the environment and our clients. We are looking for someone with a solid planning background, with experience in RMA policy development and consenting processes, iwi partnerships, iwi management plans and stakeholder consultation; and who has an understanding of the value of technical and scientific concepts in informing evidence-based approaches to decision-making.

We are a small, but a creative and high-performing team with expertise across policy, planning, biodiversity, water quality, land management, and conservation science. We work with an active network of collaborators including researchers, lawyers, scientists, and other practitioners to deliver innovative, practical, evidence-driven solutions to complex natural resource management and conservation challenges across Aotearoa. Our clients include iwi, environmental groups, local and central government, and landowners. Our team have worked on many of the large-scale resource management projects across Aotearoa in the past few years, and we have a reputation for creative and constructive solutions to complex issues.

If this sounds like you and you are interested in joining us, then check us out at www.thecatalystgroup.co.nz.

Our company has offices in Palmerston North, Wellington, Tauranga and Nelson and works across the country. While we would prefer someone to join our Nelson team, we are open to your proposal for something different. We pride ourselves on providing a supportive and inclusive culture and flexible work environment and will consider both full-time and part-time prospects.

So if you are keen to discuss this opportunity give Fleur Maseyk a call on 022 158 1615 or express your interest at enquiries@thecatalystgroup.co.nz.
